

Be the Change

Change is a thing that happens no matter what. There is nothing a person can do to prevent change or delay it. What they can do is decide how something changes and the outcome of it. Change is inevitable and in order to live our best lives and have success we have to try our best to have positive changes in our lives. It doesn't matter where you come from or who you are, everyone has the opportunity to change for the better and live the best they can. Furthermore that is easier said than done. The thing with change is that it is not a straightforward and quick line

Someone could have it all, they could be the richest in town and have everything that they have wanted but it is up to the person that changes, If they turn into this evil person that pushes everyone away eventually it will catch up to them and that is the change they have chosen. If someone else has had a rough go at it and they decide to change the way they live and start to hustle they can change their lives for the better.

How people change can also be influenced by not just then themselves but what the other factors they have in their lives whether it by some family member or some financial things or just plain circumstances that go in in people's lives those things are what can make someone change for the better or they could change for the worse as well. Being the better version of yourself can only be achieved if you allow change to change you for the better and not being caught up in trying to achieve your goal and pushing everything that got you to where you are today and everyone that has helped you along the way because if you do that in the future the change would have changed your life for the worse.

Change can also come in when you need it the most, Like a motivator to make yourself have a good life again. All it takes is one thing like a spark to make yourself be changed but it is up to the person themselves that the change is either good or bad. ALthough people have made bad choices in their lives they can change it for the better and it is never too late but it is only possible if the person takes it as a positive and makes sure it will stay that way.

Change is all about acceptance. It is always going to happen and the only thing that is up to a person is that if they are going to take the change and try to better themselves or mope in it and not do anything about it and not try to make their lives better with the change that comes their way. Without change people would stay the same and there would be no greater advancement in the future lives of people